How to Matter beyond Ego Agenda

If ego parts create the illusion of control dramas for power, then how do we embrace the wisdom of witnessing self and others beyond the behavior of participating? What if we can teach others the gift of responding rather than reacting? In this class participants will be invited to redefine our purpose of existence beyond the illusions of our stories.

Compassion for the Family of our DNA

If we could discover what makes us similar and different to the experience of family lineage, perhaps we can begin the journey of finding our self in others. Learning the process of respecting the sacred events of our past that made our incarnation possible could be the pathway to finding compassion with self about our judgment of others. One source of this process will emerge from the Gestalt of Family Constellations.

The Purpose of Attachment

If human attachments are expressed through obsession or apathy for deflection, how can we move through the extremes to discover the wisdom of heart connection? Participants will discover the paradox of learning how to not attach to our attachments by witnessing the consequences of living in the extremes.

Understanding Behavior as a Symptom vs Issue

From our incarnation forward, our ego developed the judgment of associating behavior of others with values learned through the confinement of our family values. Participants will be invited to witness the control dramas of behavior as a survival need rather than the judgment of competing and comparing. What if we could remove shame and fear from our judgment of behavior and understand it is a conscious or subconscious agenda of survival?

Lessons Learned from Connecting with Past, Present, and Future

If time appears to exist through the filter of our ego parts, it helps to explain why Christmas Eve at six years old appeared to take more time than the last ten years of our life. What if we could find the consciousness to fold the illusion of time into itself and embrace the possibility we dream our dreams through self-hypnosis to learn a deeper wisdom of life?
