Intensives or five sessions with John.*

Thursday: Seven Thresholds of Consciousness for Advanced Holistic Coaching

Meeting people where they are in their level of consciousness requires discovering how they hear our coaching. Participants in this class will learn the level of resonance through questions and observations of clients. The consequences of assuming where people want to start their journey can create overwhelm, confusion, anger/shame, and separation. Asking the right questions and using intuition to invite a client to begin a journey of self-discovery is required for piercing illusions and myths.

Friday: Advanced Holistic Coaching through Hermetic Philosophy

Helping self and inspiring others to witness attachments within the Hermetic Seal of the ego helps us to explore the consciousness of the Universe residing outside of our human attachments and control dramas. We will explore how natural laws of the literal realm can be influenced from another source of consciousness that brings intimacy and connection with the All. Participants are invited to embrace an ancient wisdom with integral to coaching and will learn to invite expanded possibilities and probabilities into a new world of manifesting and shape shifting beyond the program of our ego's conscious or subconscious beliefs.

Saturday: Working with Difficult Clients

If the defended ego creates resistance by proving and/or defending, how do we find the energy of words of invitation and new discoveries to realize we can matter more through curiosity than the illusion of power through resistance? Helping clients to discover conflicted ego parts that own the illusion of power through sparring, deception, and the shame of revealing secrets allows us to view a deeper truth of becoming humble and curious. Inviting ego parts to acknowledge life with respect and curiosity will permit accepting experiences of those living in denial of their own value and purpose.

Sunday: Hidden Control Dramas of Vampires and Zombies

Attachment to survival encourages some to participate in the archetype of vampire or zombie. The light and shadow aspects of these archetypes appear to create control dramas of survival rather than risking living. Identifying the characteristics of the Overgiver and Overtaker allows realization of the deception of self. Then, Holistic Coaching can offer consequences and opportunities to discover how clients can matter beyond these control dramas.

Monday: Consciousness of an Open Heart

If the consciousness of an open heart begins with compassion and empathy, how do we prevent the ego from attaching the shadow side of sympathy and loss of self? Small children, born into pure innocence with an open heart without healthy limits and boundaries are separated from their essence and then required to attach to validation by others. In this class we will discover reconnecting to the consciousness of an open heart that offers even deeper compassion for our own deception, control dramas and self-loathing.
